

THIRD PARTY REQUEST TO ACCESS RECORDS CONTAINING SENSITIVE PERSONAL INFORMATION

Data Protection Legislation

The data we gather and hold is managed in accordance with Data Protection, which requires us to disclose information only to the person about whom it was written. Sailors Childrens Society (formerly known as Newland homes) as the data controller does not have a legal obligation to provide family history information to relatives, however the Trustees feel strongly that we have a moral obligation to share information with descendants whose lives may have been significantly affected and as such will release information to the nearest living surviving relation if the person is deceased.

- Consent
Because of the above, we require signed consent from the nearest surviving relative of the person named in the records and proof that the person named is deceased. The attached form should therefore be completed in full by the appropriate person.
- Relationship
Please remember to make it clear on the form how you are related to the person about whom the information relates. We will only be providing you with information about your relative as the nearest surviving relation if the relevant supporting documentation is received. We will not include any information about their brothers and/or sisters who may have been resident at Newland Homes.
- Support
Reading about your family circumstances may sometimes prove to be difficult. We feel many events and decisions of the past need to be understood in the context of the child care standards and social conditions of many years ago. It concerns us that in sending information in the post to you we are unable to provide either emotional support or explanations of the facts. We therefore ask you to think carefully about who will support you when you read the information we send.

Hull City Archives at the Hull History Centre holds the records of the Sailors Childrens Society and requests to access these records may be made by completing this application form and returning it to the History Centre along with all required documentation and the fee. All relevant documentation will then be passed to the Sailors Childrens Society so we can respond to your enquiry.

Natasha Barley
Chief Executive Officer
Sailors Childrens Society
